Athens, Ga., February 23.
Special to The Evening Constitution.

Athens was in the edge of a cyclone this morning at ten minutes past 12 o'clock for two minutes every house in town was shaken to the very foundation. Roofs went whirling into the air. Blinds, windows, fences and doors went down before the wind. Then came a driving rain. Trees were blown down all over the city.

At the Lucy Cobb Institute a portion of the roof was blown away and the young ladies were terrified.

LIBRARY INJURED.

One corner of the library building on the campus of the university was unroofed.

The roof of the Henderson warehouse was totally wrecked. The Farmers' Alliance warehouse was blown down.

A dance was in progress at Dupree hall and all the lights were extinguished, windows were blown in and for a while consternation reigned.

No injuries to persons have been reported. The damage to the property all told will amount to several thousand dollars.

MANY HOUSES INJURED.

The roof was blown off two buildings on the campus.

The Phi Kappa hall was damaged and fifteen small houses in east Athens blown over. One two-story house was blown in. In east Athens the wind turned around a house on its foundation.

Probably two hundred houses were slightly damaged, total damages to property not less than $15,000.

Savannah, Ga., February 23.
Special to The Evening Constitution.

Through a mistake in using Rough on Rats for yeast in making biscuits Henry Taylor, a ten-year-old white boy, and Sam Green, an eleven-year-old negro, who live at Jonesville, S. C., one mile from Savannah, just over the river, were poisoned to death yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Taylor came to Savannah yesterday to participate in the celebration of Washington's birthday and left their son, Henry, at home in company with Sam Green. When the parents returned home last night, they found Sam Green in the house dead and their son lying close to him on the floor in the throes of death.

He suffered great agony for several hours until death came. The boys got hold of a can of Rough on Rats, which they thought was yeast, and finding flour in the pantry they cooked biscuits and ate several of them.

The poisoned food soon afterwards took effect, and the boys being in the house alone, had no one to render them assistance.

Mr. Taylor came to the city this morning and reported the case to Coroner Goette, but that officer had no jurisdiction, as the deaths occurred in Carolina.

THE BAUM REQUISITION.

Governor Has Set Hearing of Argument in the Case for March 1st.

Governor Atkinson has set the hearing of the Marcus Baum requisition case for Monday, March 1st.

Early in December a requisition was served on the governor for the custody of Marcus Baum by the governor of Maryland, the charge being that he was wanted in that state for swindling.

Baum resisted the requisition and employed Colonel S. C. Cohen and Joseph R. Lamar to defend the case. The Maryland authorities employed J. B. and W. T. Davidson, and both sides have agreed to argue the case before the governor on that day.

The Enraged Man Had Been Living
Apart from His Wife and She Only Went to Him in the Belief That He Locked Up.

This morning about 8:30 o'clock H. P. Cook, a one-armed confederate veteran who lives at 47 Magnolia street, cut his wife's throat with an ordinary pocket-knife and inflicted serious wounds.

Cook was arrested and taken to the station house, where he is now confined in a cell and it is likely that a warrant will be sworn out, charging him with assault with attempt to murder. If the warrant is sworn out he will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Cook is an old man, is well educated and comes of one of the first families in South Carolina. He fought all through the war and came out loser by one arm, for which he draws a pension from this state. His wife claims that he was very good to her when sober, but as he is in that condition only once in a great while, she says that they lived a terrible life together.

DECIDED TO LEAVE HIM.

Finally about a year ago she decided to leave him. She at once put her resolution into effect and moved on Pratt street, where she still resides. She claims that he has repeatedly tried to induce her to come back to him, but she has refused, knowing that he would begin his cruel treatment again.

Last night she says he sent her word that he was dying and begged her, through his messenger, to come to his bedside. She complied with his request and went this morning. When she reached the room he told her that he was so glad to see her, as he wished to be forgiven for the cruel treatment to her.

She replied that she would forgive him and he then asked her to come to the bed and feel his pulse to see how he was getting along. She says that she did as he requested, but had no sooner reached his side when he pulled an ordinary pocket-knife from under the bedclothes and made a lunge at her throat.

STABBED HER IN THE NECK.

The blade of the knife pierced her neck just below the jugular vein and made a gash fully six inches long under the chin.

She screamed and the neighbors rushed to her assistance. She was carried to Sharp's drug store, which is only a block away, and physicians were summoned. They dressed the wound and sent the unfortunate woman back to her home on Pratt street, where she is resting at present. It is thought that with proper care and attention she will recover.

While the physicians were dressing the wound of the woman Cook came to the door and demanded admittance. He said that she was his wife and he had a right to come in. She begged the physicians to keep her husband from coming in, saying that he would kill her. They refused him admittance and he was soon afterwards arrested by a policeman.

NEWMAN GRANTS INJUNCTION

The Petition of Garner for a Federal Court Receiver Will Be Heard by the Court on March 3d.

A HOT FIGHT FOR THE SPOILS

Lawyers Will Meet Thursday To Talk
Over the Affairs of the Association, and a Very Lively Time Is Expected—Mr. Hale Has Returned from the North.

In the United States circuit court this morning Judge Newman granted a temporary restraining order against State Treasurer William J. Speer in the case of Charles E. Garner vs. the Southern Mutual Building and Loan Association.

The motion was made by Judge Henry D. Tompkins, representing Garner, whom it will be remembered, recently asked for a receiver in the case from the United States court.

The restraining order prohibits Treasurer Speer from turning over to the association any loans, deeds or securities which he may have in his possession.

An order was also entered setting March 3d, at 10 o'clock, as the time for hearing the application of Garner for a receiver for the institution and making the restraining order continuing.

It will be remembered that Mr. Garner filed a petition in the federal court asking for a receiver for the association after the state court had taken supervision and appointed a temporary receiver to take charge of the affairs of the association. The application was brought up once or twice, but action was finally postponed until after the meeting of the stockholders, which has been called to assemble this week in order to see just what shape the affairs of the institution are in and what action they propose to take.

An application for a permanent receiver was also made to the superior court, but this has also been postponed until after the meeting of the stockholders on Thursday. It will then be taken up and decided whether the receivership shall be made permanent or not. The association will in all probability fight the receivership and then try to form a liquidation committee to wind up the assets and settle with the creditors of the institution.

The case has attracted widespread attention and the meeting this week promises to be filled with much interest, while there may be some sensational developments in connection with the management of the association.

HOT AFTER THE SPOILS.

As has been foretold in The Evening Constitution, the stockholders' meeting will in reality be nothing more than a lawyers' meeting, where a hot fight will be waged among the different factions for a division of the spoils.

There have been several plans outlined for reorganization and liquidation, but it is not believed that the stockholders or their representatives can agree upon any one plan and that the receivership may be allowed to remain permanent. If this latter case is decided upon the fight will then be over the permanent receiver.

Mr. W. C. Hale, president of the defunct association, has been in Philadelphia for the past few days, on a business trip, and it is understood that he has garnered in several shares of stock while he has been away (a twill be very much in evidence at the meetings on Thursday).

Dr. Thurman Possessed Many Articles of Queer Design, and His Col-

ALL IN COURT THIS MORNING

That Three-Wheeled Conveyance of the Doctor's Is Again Talked Of—Mrs.
Thurmond Talks About Her Husband's Life—Evidence That the Deceased Was Peculiar and of Unsound Mind.

The evidence in the Thurman will case was concluded this morning.

It was the most important day of the trial, and the attorneys for the caveator will depend much on the testimony heard this morning to prove that Dr. Thurman was not of sound mind when he made his last will.

Four wills have been introduced in the case. One of these was made by Dr. Thurman in 1874. This was in favor of his wife. In 1878 Mrs. Thurman copied the first will, making it in favor of Dr. Thurman. The third will was made in 1888. In this he makes an indorsement to the Technological school, making it subject to the first.

It is the fourth will, made in 1892, which is being contested. In this Mrs. Underwood is named as heir after Mrs. Thurman's death.

Mr. L. E. Gwinn, now a resident of Brunswick, Ga., was the first witness called. He testified that he was one of the witnesses to the last will of Dr. Thurman. Mr. Gwinn came up from Brunswick yesterday.

Mrs. M. E. Roch says she was a personal friend of the family and was frequently at the house during the last few months of Dr. Thurman's life.

She states that Dr. Thurman gave a dinner party and was so nervous during the dinner that he was unable to do the duty of a host. She saw Mrs. Underwood at Dr. Thurman's only once.

She testified that soon after the death of Dr. Thurman's child, which was just before Sherman marched into Atlanta, he went around trying to find another child similar to the one he lost.

Mrs. Helen Thomas, wife of James Thomas, was placed on the stand and testified that Dr. Thurman was weak both physically and mentally. Mrs. Thurman treated Dr. Thurman very kindly. During his later years she felt certain that he was of unsound mind. There was a far-away look in his eyes.

MRS. THURMAN TESTIFIES.
Mrs. Thurman was placed on the stand. She testified that she married Dr. Thurman in 1853. They moved to Atlanta in 1855.

She says that one son was born, but he died soon after the war. Their relations were as pleasant as possible. "While he was eccentric, he was very kind to me."

"Dr. Thurman was forever trying to invent things," she said.
The articles that Dr. Thurman played with were here introduced.
The machine of perpetual motion was described by Mrs. Thurman. A large white flag was introduced. "Dr. Thurman used to take this flag to a stand between the folding doors and wave it, then talk of the power there was in it."

The instrument of weighing salt and fresh water was brought in. Mrs. Thurman told how Dr. Thurman used to experiment with it.

The big vase doll was opened. "Dr. Thurman gave me this doll," said Mrs. Thurman. "He used to hug and kiss it and treat it very affectionately. He had two other dolls, these he named Alice Hocker and Lizzie Venable."

"When Dr. Thurman returned from California he brought with him four dozen pairs of underclothing."
Mrs. Thurman stated that she had known Mrs. Underwood for eighteen or twenty years; that she lived in Gainesville at one time and came to Atlanta to buy a place. She stated with her in the city. That Dr. Thurman would go with Mrs. Underwood when she went out to look for a house. That they went as often as twice a day.

Dr. Thurman went to the springs, and while there wrote to her. In this letter Dr. Thurman said that Mrs. Underwood was at the springs and that she treated him mean. That she had to pay her board; that she had followed him there.

That the first she knew of there being a will in favor of Mrs. Underwood was June 17, 1894.

That she was in the Lowry bank and that Marvin Underwood was with her. The clerk asked her did Dr. Thurman leave a will, and she told him yes, and that she was named as the sole heir. She happened to turn around and Marion Underwood was as white as a sheet and trembling. That she said to him to go to his father and tell him she wanted to see him.

Mr. Underwood came to her house and said: "Oh, yes, there was another will, Mrs. Florence (Mrs. Underwood) had been remembered."

Mrs. Thurman said that Dr. Thurman read his will, which he said was his last. That was the one leaving all to her.

She never heard of Dr. Thurman looking for another child to take the place of her last child.

MODERN PYTHIAS IS NOW WORRIED

Some Husbands and Fair Young Women
Are Greatly Excited and Trouble of a Serious Nature Has Broken Loose—Smith's Private Desk Ransacked and His Love Letters Are Removed and Distributed.

The arrest of Otis Smith on the charge of embezzlement has brought about serious complications in society circles. Consternation reigns supreme in some of the most fashionable households of the well set, and it looks as if trouble of a serious nature is in store for some of the gay set, if reports are true.

As is well known, young Smith was one of the swells of the swell. He was at the front in matters social. He shined like a brilliant star in a clear sky on the darkest night. His position was one which carried envy to the hearts of many of his social rivals.

With the downfall of the young cashier there comes to light a story which eclipses any other feature of the case in interest, because it is of widespread importance and dozens of the best known young men and young ladies and their parents of the city are interested personally.

It is this:
Young Smith was a methodical sort of fellow, and in his social career he took pains to accumulate quite a collection of bric-a-brac and interesting little things which served to make up a splendid exhibit, representative of his experiences, pleasures and existence in society's realm. Among the lot of stuff he put aside were several dozen packages of letters from the pens of some of Atlanta's tender sex—missives from the maids and debutantes and others of Atlanta's young women in society.

THANKS FOR CANDY, ETC.

Smith took great pains to keep all of the notes and letters he received from the fair sex, and as time flew he gradually began to collect a great stack of the tender communications, written in appreciation of sundry boxes of candy, matinee tickets, invitations to lead Germans and to dine at the swellest places, and, perhaps, some other letters and dainty notes of a nature best not told of. Several years in society is said to be sufficient to enable a leader to gather any number of such documents which would make very interesting reading. At any rate Smith is said to have tenderly tied up package after package of letters, securing them with pretty ribbon, the writer's name placed on each package for identification.

The letters are said to have been written in the last few years and some of them come from ladies now married who were then in the social swim unfettered by the bonds of matrimony. Others were sent by young ladies who are still "out," but who have since become engaged. Smith is said to have kept these packages secretly put away in his private desk, and they were not open to inspection.

He regarded them as personal, as, indeed, they were, as is evidenced by the contents of some of them, and but for the unthoughtful act of one of his most intimate friends yesterday morning the letters would never have been heard of. As it is, Smith and his young lady friends, and the married ones, too, should now ask to be saved from their friends, because this zealous Pythias has got things in a terrible mess and stir by taking charge of the private letters.

SENT THE LETTERS TO WIVES.

Yesterday morning this friend, who is one of the leaders of local society, is said to have taken possession of the letters, and thinking that he would do all parties a friendly service, he struck upon the idea of distributing the letters among the writers. Accordingly he sent out package after package to the fair young ladies, and many, of course, went to young women who have married since writing to Mr. Smith. Some of the husbands of the latter got hold of packages of the letters yesterday, and there was trouble in many households.

It is said that in some way a package of letters misarranged, written by one of Peachtree's fairest young women, and by some chance got into the hands of a certain young swell, who proudly speaks of her as his fiancée. It is said that he called last night and there is a good prospect that the engagement will be broken off, the young gentleman refusing to accept the explanation that the letters were written soon after the young lady made her debut and when she was young and thoughtless. Certain it is that trouble has been caused by the distribution of the cherished letters, but he best part of the story is to come. After sending out the packages the young friend of Smith was told that he had violated the law by taking possession of Smith's private papers and that he is subject to prosecution. He is frightened to distraction and this morning several of his friends were going the rounds attempting to gather together again the troublesome letters to be replaced in Smith's private desk from which they were taken. How well they are succeeding is not known, but it is known that several packages of the letters have been burned by irate husbands and lovers.

HAS GENERAL LEE QUIT?

BELIEVED IN WASHINGTON THAT HE IS SICK OF CLEVELANDISM.

But His Resignation Has Not Been Received Yet, and the State Department Has No Knowledge of His Intentions.

Washington, February 23.
Special to The Evening Constitution.

At the state department nothing is known of the rumored resignation of Consul General Lee. Secretary Olney states that if the resignation has been sent it will come by mail and is not due yet. It true it will make no change in the attitude of the administration toward Cuban affairs. The end of this administration is so near at hand that no successor would be appointed, the place being held open for McKinley to fill.

Two explanations are given here in Washington. One is that General Lee has simply made formal tender of his resignation in view of the change in administration. The other is that the resignation would be addressed to McKinley. The date on which it is said to have been sent makes this explanation impossible. The generally accepted explanation of the resignation, if it has been sent, is that General Lee wants the credit of going out with something like a flare of trumpets; in other words, he wants to get the credit for resigning because of the administration's opposition to his efforts in behalf of American citizens, rather than handing in a perfunctory resignation several days later, as would necessarily follow.

The general's friends repudiate this version of his action, however, declaring that he is not a grandstand player, like others of the administration and mugwump crowd with which he has been training. They say that if his resignation comes, it is because of an honest repudiation of the cold-blooded policy of the administration, which allows American citizens to be jailed, starved and butchered by Spanish troops without a word of protest from this government.

The air is full of rumors of Lee's resignation, as I wired The Evening Constitution yesterday, but all explanations of that act are mere speculations, because the resignation itself, which carries its own reasons, is not here.

SMITH WILL GO TO JAIL

He Is a Confessed Forger as Well as an Embezzler of the Funds of His Employers.

HE ISSUED SOME BOGUS STOCK

Forged Checks, Held Back Pay Roll
Money and, in Fact, Picked Up
All the Cash in Sight.

MONEY WENT FOR FAST LIVING

He Has Confessed to All Sorts of Peculations and Forgeries, and There Seems No End to the Crookedness Which He Practiced—His Private Papers Being Overhauled—Mr.
English Talks About the Matter.

Otis O. Smith is a confessed forger as well as an embezzler.

The Georgia Security and Banking Company is busy today investigating to ascertain exactly how much bogus stock of that company Smith issued for the purpose of raising cash when he needed it. The Atlanta National bank has a bogus certificate of this stock, on which Smith borrowed $500, but afterwards paid back $400 of the amount, leaving $100 due the bank.

THE CASES OF FORGERY.

The worst cases of forgery with which Smith stands charged with the indorsement of checks which were drawn by Mr. J. W. English, Jr., in favor of Atlanta merchants. Instead of delivering the checks, Smith would forge the name of the payee and collect the amount. One of these checks, now in the possession of Mr. English, was made payable to the order of the Elkin-Watson Drug Company. It was presented at the bank indorsed and was paid, Smith receiving the money. The drug company now declares that it never saw the check and that the indorsement is a forgery.

HELD BACK PAY ROLL MONEY.

Another method Smith practiced to get money which did not belong to him was to withhold a part of the cash placed in his hands for the pay rolls of workmen employed by Mr. English. Exactly how much money he appropriated in this way cannot be ascertained until the books are checked up.

In speaking of the peculations of Smith this morning Mr. English said:

WHAT MR. ENGLISH SAYS.

"It is impossible to say how much bogus stock Smith issued for the Georgia Security and Banking Company. He had the stock book and whenever he wanted a little extra cash he would fill out stock certificates and get the money on them. These are, of course, the rankest forgeries. He was my bookkeeper for eighteen months and I have never had the books of my office checked, as I had the utmost confidence in him. I know of one check alone which I left in my office as a blank to be filled out when needed, that he filled for $150 and took the money. There is another check of the same nature which he cashed for $102. He has confessed to several forgeries."

A CONFERENCE HELD.

Smith's father has retained Mr. Fulton Colville as a legal adviser. This morning the father, Mr. Colville, Mr. English and Mr. Daley, the attorney for the Georgia Security and Banking Company, held a consultation. It was decided that Smith be taken to jail this afternoon and that the preliminary trial on the charge of embezzlement be postponed for two or three days. Smith will not be able to give bond while awaiting the preliminary trial and will remain in the Fulton county jail. Last night and this morning he was kept under guard in the room at 27½ South Broad street.

SEARCHING PRIVATE PAPERS.

At noon today Mr. Colville, Mr. T. B. Felder and Mr. English visited the Leyden, or Bell house, on Peachtree street, where Smith has been boarding, for the purpose of looking over Smith's private papers.

On some of the prisoner's private memoranda were found several entries of expense items which gave some indication of the direction in which his cash had gone. There were pencil notes of dinner parties, theater parties, balls, hack hire, bouquets, jewelry and swell suppers along with tailor bills too numerous to mention. He had sowed the wind and is now reaping the whirlwind.

Smith's signed confession of the stealings he had made is in the possession of Attorney Daley and will be used on the commitment trial.

The defense seems to have no plans for the case. It is possible that the effort to raise enough money to satisfy those he has stolen from may be successful, and this may go in a mitigation of the prosecution.

The investigation of the books is going on, but there seems to be no change in the situation as yet.

OTTOMAN EMPIRE IS FAST NEARING ITS DOOM

Generally Conceded in the European Capitals That the Present Crisis Will Bring About the Fall of the Sultan's Domain--Greece's Power in the East Is Now Rising.

MUCH EXCITEMENT IN ENGLAND AND FRANCE

An Animated Debate in the House of Commons Shows the Tend of British Sympathy--M. Hanotaux Succeeds in Temporarily Quieting the Feeling in the Chamber of Deputies in Paris.

New York, February 22.—A special cable dispatch to The Sun from London, after referring to the animated debate in the house of commons yesterday over the Cretan question, says:

The British public is becoming daily more incensed over the eastern situation. Yesterday's bombardment led by British ships has brought the popular temper almost to the boiling point. It will not require much more to cause such an outburst of public protest as will, in effect, take the matter out of the hands of Lord Salisbury's government. Already it is necessary to appeal, every day and hour, to the popular fear of a general war in order to prevent the force of public opinion from breaking all the usual bounds.

INEFFECTUAL APPEAL.

This appeal is rapidly becoming ineffectual. The people are no longer troubled when the horrors of war are described to them. As a matter of fact Lord Salisbury's government, rightly or wrongly, has no expectation that war will develop from the present situation. It follows that the gruesome language used in the house of commons regarding the dangers of the crisis is designed solely to quell the public resentment against the execrable policy which the government thinks it necessary to adopt.

IN THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.

M. Hanotaux, in the chamber of deputies yesterday, also succeeded temporarily in quieting French opposition to the disgraceful policy which the powers are pursuing. He, like Mr. Curzon, relied upon the technical violation of international law by Greece and the insurgents for justification of the action of the powers.

It must be admitted in spite of the absolute confidence expressed in all the great capitals that the impression is growing that no progress is being made toward a practical solution of the problem in Crete. The latest news is that neither Greece nor Turkey will allow the present intolerable and indefinite situation to continue more than a day or two longer without a mutual declaration of war.

GOING TO ITS DOOM.

There is no indication yet what the powers are prepared to do in that emergency. It is probable indeed that they made no preparation for it whatever. There is one glorious certainty.

When that point is reached the Ottoman empire in Europe will speedily go to its doom beyond the possibility of restoration.

RE-ENFORCEMENT FOR GREECE

Turkish Troops Being Massed on the Frontier--An Agreement Said To Be Reached.

Constantinople, February 22.—It is announced here that the Cretan difficulties have been settled upon the basis of autonomy for the island, the port nominating the governor of Crete under the assent and approval of the powers.

In view of the possibility that Greece will oppose such arrangements, large quantities of munitions of war are being hurried to the Greek frontier, and Turkish troops there are being rapidly re-enforced.

London Papers Say He Will Maintain the High Standard Set by Other American Representatives.

London, February 22.—Commenting on the report that Colonel John Hay had accepted the post of American ambassador to Great Britain The Times says that his appointment may be regarded as a compliment to the British nation.

The paper dwells upon the high level of the character and capacity of the American envoys since the war and says that Colonel Hay will maintain it. The other papers also show in their comments their pleasure at Colonel Hay's appointment.

WHITE MEN KILLED SUNDAY NIGHT AND DIRE THREATS MADE.

An Appeal to the Governor of Nevada Has Been Made for Protection and Troops Will Leave Carson City Very Soon.

Carson, Nev., February 22.—A telegram received yesterday by Governor Sadler from Mason Valley stated that some white men killed an Indian Sunday night and the Piute say they will kill all the white men and bury everything within reach.

The governor is asked to send fifty men at once and follow with fifty more later. Adjutant General Gellish and a company from Virginia will leave as soon as possible. Mason Valley is in Lyon county, about thirty miles from Carson City, on the Carson, Colorado railroad.

There is no clue to the robbers.

A SPRING ELECTION

Mr. A. A. DeLoach Confirms the Report That a Prohibition Election May Be Held.

HE SAYS IT IS VERY PROBABLE

Activity Among the Church People Seems To Substantiate Rumor as Given Out Yesterday.

TEMPERANCE FOLKS NOT SATISFIED

Mr. DeLoach Says They Are Now Displeased with the Actions of the Legislators on the Subject--Content Between Now and Next Summer.

As announced exclusively in The Evening Constitution of yesterday, the temperance people are seriously considering the advisability of calling for an election on the prohibition question.

If the matter takes definite shape, as it now appears that it will, the effort will be made in the early spring, and the prohibitionists and temperance people generally will make a strong effort to precipitate an election.

A number of people interested in the temperance movement have recently spoken to me on the subject," said Mr. A. A. DeLoach today in answer to an inquiry as to the exact status of the question, "and they are all in favor of calling for an election. The main reason for this movement is the fact that our legislators, whom we voted for in good faith, believing that they would support such temperance measures as came up before the legislature, seem to have taken the ground that the temperance people in voting for Governor Wright forfeited any claims that they might have had on the legislators, and they appear to have lost all interest in the passage of any laws on the line of temperance.

"The movement is still indefinite and there is no one who may be considered as leading in the agitation. It seems to be a spontaneous feeling on the part of the temperance people generally, who are not satisfied with the course pursued by our representatives in the legislature, and who are anxious to put an end to the sale of liquor in Atlanta. If the movement takes a definite shape I think that the aims and intentions of those favoring it are to bring it on during the early spring, and I would not be surprised if the contest were brought about between now and next summer."

REFORM PRESS MEETS.

A. ROSELLE, THE SECRETARY, REMOVED FROM OFFICE.

Credentialed Committee Has No Easy Matter in Reporting--Frank Burdett Made President--Vandervoort's Greeting.

Memphis, Tenn., February 22.—The seventh annual meeting of the National Reform Press Association was called to order here at 11 o'clock Monday morning by President Paul Vandervoort, of Omaha, Neb. Mayor Clapp delivered an address of welcome.

The 250 delegates wrangled for nearly an hour over the appointment of a committee on credentials. While waiting for the committee to make their report the annual address of President Vandervoort was read.

The executive committee met early in the morning and removed A. Roselle, of St. Louis, from the office of secretary and treasurer and appointed J. A. Parker to fill the vacancy.

CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE. The first business of the association's afternoon session was a report from the credentials committee. It had to operate upon a chaotic condition, in view of the absence of records, etc., in the hands of the executive committee.

It showed an attendance of sixty from the states of Washington, Arkansas, Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Indiana, Louisiana, Texas, Iowa, North Carolina, West Virginia and Massachusetts. During a discussion of constitution and by-laws a strong sentiment for press reform was disclosed, the purpose being to expel any editor who advocated anything save middle of the road doctrines. The question went to the committee on constitution and by-laws.

NEW PRESIDENT. Frank Burdett, of Mississippi, was elected president by a rising and unanimous vote. In presenting Captain Burdett with the president's gavel General Vandervoort said he gave it cheerfully and with the confidence that it would never be dishonored by a man who had made a gallant and brave Confederate soldier.

He himself wore the blue, but he was glad to yield his post to a wearer of the gray. A local committee of arrangements announced the prospect of an excursion to New Orleans, which will probably leave Thursday morning.

TRAVELERS ARE COMING. Preparations being made for the convention to be held in Atlanta. The members of the local branch of the Travelers' Protective Association are preparing for the annual convention, which will meet here in April.

Every large city and many of the smaller ones throughout the state will be represented, and many matters of importance will come up for discussion.

Among the important things to be done is the selection of delegates to the national convention, which will meet in Nashville, Tenn., in June. Georgia will send the largest and best delegation that has ever represented the state at an annual convention.

Mr. E. E. Smith, chairman of the committee on railroads, will be present a very interesting report, dealing among other subjects, with that of the proposed 5,000 mile book on which the committee has been at work for some time.

The convention will meet in the Kimball house and its meetings will be largely attended. There will be the usual spread and it is probable that the meeting will wind up with a regular old fashioned barbecue tendered the victors by the Atlanta branch.

BENIN, CITY OF BLOOD

The British Expedition Sent To Punish Its King Has an Awful Tale To Tell.

PRIESTS ARE FOUND CRUCIFIED

The Ju Ju Houses Were Discovered Reeking with the Blood of Those Recently Beheaded.

NO TRAIL OF CAMPBELL FOUND

Drunamis, the King, Fled Before the English, but They Are in Hot Pursuit and Hope To Capture and Punish Him for the Slaughter of Their Countrymen.

Brass, Niger Coast Protectorate, February 22.—The expedition which was formed to punish Drunamis, king of Benin, for the murder of the members of a peaceful British expedition which was trying to reach Benin City, has been entirely successful.

The expedition has captured Benin City and the king is a fugitive. He fled northward, but a part of the expedition is in pursuit after him and it is expected that he will be taken prisoner.

PRIEST CRUCIFIED.

When the expedition entered the town it was found that it well deserved its name of "City of Blood." Many victims of the Ju Ju, or fetish priests, were found crucified, they having been sacrificed to the various gods. The Ju Ju houses and their compounds were reeking with the blood of those who had recently been beheaded in the religious ceremonies.

In the fighting that took place before the town was captured seventeen Europeans and twenty-three native members of the expedition were killed or wounded.

NO TRACE OF CAMPBELL. No trace was found of Mr. Campbell, a consular official, who was captured by the Beninites at the time of the massacre, and it is supposed that he was killed by his captors shortly after he was made a prisoner.

LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

ATTORNEY GENERAL CRANE WILL APPEAL THE CASE TO THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES IN AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Dallas, Tex., February 22.—In the United States district court for the northern district of Texas, Judge Swayne, of the northern district of Florida, sitting by appointment in the litigation known as the Standard oil combine against the Texas anti-trust law yesterday, rendered his opinion.

He decided against the state and declared the law unconstitutional. Attorney General Crane, of Texas, announced that he would appeal from the decision to the supreme court of the United States.

COLLEGE MEN MEET. Representatives from the Universities Discuss Important Matters.

An important meeting of representatives of Mercer, Athens and Oxford colleges occurred in the office of State School Commissioner Glens yesterday afternoon.

The object of the meeting was to formulate some plan to secure a uniformity of examinations for pupils desiring to enter the several colleges.

As the matter now stands the requirements for entrance into the freshmen, sophomore or junior classes are different and no uniformity of examinations has ever been instituted.

Those attending the meeting and the department they represented were as follows: English, Dr. Morgan Callaway, Emory; Professor F. D. Pollock, Mercer; Professor W. H. Babcock, representing Professor John Morris, of the University of Georgia, mathematics; Professor M. T. Reed, Emory; Professor T. J. Woolter, Mercer; Professor D. C. Barrow, Jr., University of Georgia; Latin, Professor C. H. Harris, representing Dr. J. S. Moore, of Emory; Professor E. S. Tichenor, Mercer; Professor W. D. Hooper, University of Georgia; Greek, Professor C. H. Harris, Emory; Professor J. S. Murray, Mercer; Professor W. H. Babcock, University of Georgia; science, Professor Bonnell, Emory.

The meeting was a very interesting one and the report formulated will be submitted to the faculties of the different institutions and plans will be adopted whereby the examinations for entrance into the various classes will be made uniform probably at the beginning of the next scholastic year.

KENDRICK AND BRANAN

They Are Booked as Sure Winners in the Police Commissioners Election in the Council.

WHY MR. KENDRICK WILL WIN

W. T. Gentry, Who Was Slated as a Winner, Has Many Pressing Business Engagements.

ELECTION TAKES PLACE MONDAY

All the Political Prophets Give Out the Names of Branan and Kendrick. The Latter's Friends Claim That He Needs Vindication--Johnson Never a Candidate for Re-election.

On next Monday the election of two police commissioners will take place in the city council.

It now looks as if the two who will be chosen will be the present incumbent, Mr. J. C. A. Branan, and Major W. J. Kendrick.

At least that is the way the political prophets put it, and from the best sources of information on the matter it seems that this is a correct prophecy.

A short while ago it appeared to be a certainty that Mr. Branan's winning mate would be Mr. W. T. Gentry, but Mr. Gentry, as then stated, did not desire the office to any great extent, and the friends of Major Kendrick claimed he had been unjustly defeated at a former election by the report that he was a factional candidate, and they made earnest efforts to place him in the right light this time.

It was for these reasons that the political tide a few days ago took a different turn, and now all the indications point to the election of Major Kendrick along with Mr. Branan.

THEIR TERMS EXPIRE. On the first of March the terms of Commissioner Branan and George E. Johnson expire. It is to fill the two vacancies that the election on Monday will be held. Mr. Johnson has never expressed any intention to become a candidate to succeed himself, while Mr. Branan has been openly in the race as a sure winner. It has only been a question who would succeed Mr. Johnson, and about two or three weeks ago it was given out as almost a certainty that Mr. Gentry would be that man.

It now appears that there was some sort of a conference held last week and it was shown that Mr. Gentry was not actively in the race as a candidate, and, in fact, did not particularly care about the office as his business engagements were taking up all his time. Then, Major Kendrick has many friends in the city council who do not believe he received the right treatment at a former election and they soon had him in the front as a winner.

It may be predicted very safely that the result of the election by the council Monday will be the selection Mr. Branan and Major Kendrick as the new police commissioners.

WILL SETTLE THE CLAIM.

GUDMAN MADDOX MAKES A PROPOSITION TO THE COMPTROLLER.

Will Pay Fifteen Hundred Dollars in Behalf of Bondsmen King--It Is Believed the Offer Will Be Accepted.

Washington, February 22.—Special to The Evening Constitution. Gudman Maddox has made a proposition to the comptroller for the settlement of claims of the government against Jack King and his bondsmen, growing out of the failure of the Merchants' National bank.

THE GALLOWS

Supreme Court Refused a New Trial in a Decision Rendered This Morning in the Case.

THE DECISION IS AFFIRMED

Brookins Committed a Double Murder in Jefferson County and on the Trial Was Found Guilty.

WAS A CASE OF JEALOUS RIVALRY

Brookins Claimed That He Wanted To Get Rid of the Woman, but When He Found She Was Going To Marry Another He Raised a Row and Killed Her and Her Lover.

Lovett Brookins will pay the penalty of the crime of murder in Jefferson county. Brookins is a double murderer, having killed Lella McCrary, with whom he had been living, and Sanders Oliphant, the man whom she was about to marry, one night last year at Louisville.

Brookins was a public school teacher and he and the McCrary woman had been intimate with each other for some time. After the killing Brookins claimed that he wanted to get rid of the woman, but she taunted him with threats of exposure unless he married her.

On the night in question Brookins entered the house where Lella McCrary was staying with her sister, and while there became engaged in a quarrel with Oliphant, who had called on the woman.

A FIGHT ENSUED. A fight followed and Brookins shot and killed the woman, and in a hand to hand encounter with the man inflicted a mortal wound on him, from the effects of which he died near the scene of the shooting.

Brookins was arrested, tried and found guilty of the murder of Lella McCrary, but the case was appealed to the supreme court, which heard argument in the case last week.

This morning the following decision was handed down: Brookins v. the state. Before Judge Gamble, Jefferson superior court. Fish, J. The evidence making a plain case of murder, and the statement of the accused a case of accidental homicide, which he claimed was committed while he was defending himself from an alleged felonious assault upon him by a person other than the deceased, there was no error in failing to charge the law of voluntary manslaughter. There was no abuse of discretion in holding that the attack upon the jury for alleged partiality was sufficiently overcome. Judgment affirmed, all concurring. Charles T. Wooten, for plaintiff in error. J. M. Terrell, attorney general, and B. T. Rawlings, solicitor general, contra.

POSTMASTER KILLED. OPPONENTS OF A SCHOOL BURN IT AND PITCHED BATTLE FOLLOWS.

Three of the Assaults Are Now Under Arrest and Many Threats of Lynching Them Have Been Made.

Guthrie, Okla., February 22.—At Coombs, a house was burned by the opponents of the school and a pitched battle has taken place in the postoffice between the factions, in which Postmaster Baker was murdered.

Three of the assaults are under arrest and open threats of lynching them are made.

There is no chance now of its getting through this session--Day Not Given to It.

Washington, February 22.—The commission bill to settle the indebtedness of all the bond-aided railroads to the government, except the Union Pacific road, against which foreclosure proceedings have already been instituted, is dead for this session.

It will not be given a day in the house. If the similar bill now on the senate calendar should pass the senate bill might be considered by the house, but this contingency is outside of probability.

FLANAGAN ON VERDICT

He Declares the Jury Did Perfectly Right in Saying He Was a Sane Man.

HE VOWS HE IS NOT A LUNATIC

He Didn't Assist His Lawyers Because They Tried to Show Him Up as a "Crazy Fool."

HE TALKS ABOUT HIS MONEY

His Reasons for Wanting to Keep Out of the Way of a Howling Mob. His Idea of the "Law Taking Its Course"—His Little Fortune Continues to Be a Source of Mental Anxiety.

Flanagan is loud in his praises of the jury which found him sane at Decatur last week. He seems to have a much better opinion of the jury than his lawyers, and states emphatically that the jury "had some sense."

A representative of The Evening Constitution was permitted to see the noted prisoner this morning. When the cell—the same Flanagan had occupied for several months—was approached, the prisoner was seen moving about in search of a match.

His face suddenly assumed an expression of interest and he came toward the iron door.

"What do you think of the outcome of your trial, Flanagan?" he asked.

"I know one thing," he replied, "and that is the jury had some sense when it said I was not crazy. I told everybody I wasn't crazy, and nobody but a fool would try to make out that I was. I did what I was obliged to do, and there was no use trying to show up before the whole world as a lunatic. I had just as much sense as anybody, and I might have tried to help those fool lawyers who wanted to do me a good turn if they had not been so ready to show me up as a crazy fool. Well, thank God, the jury had some sense and knew that I was all right."

HE FEELS BETTER.

"Flanagan, don't you feel much better now that all danger of a lynching is over, and you are, for a while at least, safe in the Fulton county jail?"

"Does any man who is in his right mind and who has justice and right on his side want a mob to hang him up like a dog for nothing? Let the law take its course and give me justice, and I will go free as the air I breathe. Let a howling mob of blood-thirsty huns be turned loose and I will get neither justice nor right."

"Don't you know the very money you were so anxious to save will be all gone by the time this trial is over?"

"There was a twitting about his mouth as he replied: 'No; they cannot take my money away from me. When I get out of here I will have the money if it costs me my life. I worked for it years and years and I don't propose to be made a pauper simply because my enemies are determined to hound me down to death. You wait until I get out of here and I will show you how to get justice by law.'"

With this threat he turned and walked away and could not be induced to talk further. He threw himself upon his cot, lit a cigarette and began to mumble to himself.

He is still dressed in the soiled and shabby clothes, which he has refused to take off since his arrest.

OLD WAR HORSES DINE.

Held a Banquet at the Kimball Last Evening.

The third dinner of the United States Loyal Legion occurred in the Kimball house dining hall. The legion is composed of the officers in the United States army and is very exclusive in its membership. The members sat around the table until a late hour last evening and many tales of old times were told and recalled.

Among those present were: Majors Turner, Morgan, Porter, Watson, Manning, Captains O'Brien, Crommerford, Bailey, Arthur, Remy, Carter, Clem, Sharpe, Bowden, Eise, Randall and General Bennett.

MUST PAY YOUR DEBTS.

Credit Men of the City Are Preparing To Force Collections.

The credit men of the city will meet this afternoon in the rooms of the chamber of commerce for the purpose of debating the question as to whether or not a branch of the association could be formed here. It is claimed that the association is flourishing in many cities of the country and much of the abuse of the credit system done away with by forming an association. Mr. Book, who is secretary of the national association, will address the business men of the city tomorrow afternoon at the meeting.

NEW YORK MALE QUARTET.

Splendid Company Will Be Seen at the Y. M. C. A. Tonight.

The New York male quartet will be heard tonight at the Young Men's Christian Association. They have been in this city before and need no introduction to the lovers of good music and quiet singing. The members of the quartet have brought with them this season a surprise for the public in the person of Miss Nellie Nichols, who is probably one of the most accomplished readers on the platform.

She will favor the audience tonight with many selections, which will serve as a sauce for the music. The following programme will be rendered:

Medley (Arr.) (Groom)—New York male quartet.

"The Fair Schemer" (Bunner)—Miss Nichols.

"Because I Love You, Dear" (Hawley)—Mr. Dean.

"The Phantom Band" (Thayer)—New York male quartet.

SAFE BLOWER IS SPOTTED

He Is a Noted Negro Cracksman Who Works This Section.

OFFICERS HAVE HIS PICTURE

A Photograph Made of Him in Birmingham—He Has Been Several Times Arrested, but Nothing Could Be Proven Against Him—He Is a Slick Citizen—May Be Caught in Atlanta.

There seems to be but little doubt in the minds of the officers that the safe blower who got in his work successfully at the store of J. F. Morris, No. 70 Peters street, Friday night, has at last been spotted.

Spotting and catching a slick rascal like a professional safe blower are two entirely different things, and, while the officers feel satisfied that they know who the cracksman is, they have not yet any definite hope of getting him behind the bars.

For some time past a negro safe blower has been operating in several of the southern states quite successfully, and he has made several hauls in such places as New Orleans, Mobile, Birmingham and Nashville.

This negro was recently arrested in Birmingham, and while under detention his photograph was taken. From that photograph the picture in The Evening Constitution was made. It was impossible to get any absolute proof against the negro and he was discharged. He left Birmingham to go to Macon about two weeks ago, and it is believed he came from Macon to Atlanta.

WHAT IS HIS NAME?

Just what the negro's name is, the officers have failed to ascertain, as he has, said under numerous aliases, such as "Jack Gibbs," "Bill Johnson," "Andy Flatts," etc. His real name is thought to be John Adams.

This cracksman always operates alone, having no partners and pals. When asked in Birmingham if he had any friends he replied:

"Any fellow who would be a friend to me would be ready to give me away the first time a good fat reward was offered, whether I was guilty or not. No, I ain't got any pals and don't want them."

A sharp lookout is being kept for the negro, and if he is seen he will be arrested on suspicion. It will be hard to convict him, however, as he never has any evidence of his profession about him, such as tools or levers. He doesn't mind arrest, as he has been hauled up several times only to be turned out.

THEY MOURN PROFESSOR WILLETT.

Local Necroer Alumni Adopt Resolutions of Respect on His Death.

At noon yesterday the Atlanta chapter of the Mercer university alumni met in the mission rooms of the First Baptist church. The meeting was a very interesting one and a large number of the members were present.

Probably the most important thing that was done was the resolutions which were adopted on the death of Professor J. E. Willett, late of the university, and who died in this city a short time ago. The resolutions were appropriate and eulogistic of the deceased.

The committee which was appointed at the last meeting to draft a constitution report, and after a few slight changes the report was adopted. Judge George Hillyer and Dr. A. T. Spalding were elected vice presidents and Mr. W. E. Hawkins was elected treasurer of the chapter.

It was decided to hold only two meetings each year in the future, one in this city in midwinter and the other at the university at the beginning of each commencement. It was resolved to attend the next commencement of the university, which promises to be one of the most interesting which has been held in recent years.

REV. M. HAYGOOD OUT AGAIN.

Rev. F. M. Haygood, who was stricken some time ago, and who was confined to his bed at his residence in Kirkwood, is now almost entirely well, and is on the streets again, to the satisfaction of his friends.

He has been very ill, but not so sick as at first supposed and as was reported in the papers. He is a hale and hearty old gentleman and has many friends, who will come him out today.

THE BULLET FOUND.

X-ray Definitely Determines Location of the Lead in Second Experiment.

Athens, Ga., February 23. Special to The Evening Constitution. Professor A. H. Patterson, of the University of Georgia, has made another shadowgraph in the case of Mr. Ralph Goss, and this time the plate developed excellently.

It confirmed the former experiment and located the bullet near the young man's spine. Every outline of the spine was made visible on the plate and the picture of the bullet was perfectly plain.

The physicians in attendance acknowledged the great aid received through his successful use of the X-rays. It located the position of the bullet and enables them to tell that in all human probability the ball did not penetrate the cavity, but was deflected around in its course.

They cannot as yet say whether the young man is out of danger, and will not be able to do so for some days yet, but all believe that unless the patient takes a rapid turn for the worse he will recover.

Rich oil wells have just been discovered in the forest of Douglass, at the extremity of the Lac Amnery, in Upper Savoy. This promises vastly to increase the prosperity of that picturesque corner of France.

He Denounces Ex-Inspector Joiner, Who Has Charged Him With Serious Malfassance in Office.

WARM CHARGES ARE MADE

Joiner Claims That Chief Veal Swindled City in Purchasing Stock for Sanitary Department.

IS ACCUSED OF IMMORAL CONDUCT

Made for Political Reasons, and That Others Beside Joiner Are Behind the Matter—The Council Will Investigate Monday.

"The charges made again me are lies from beginning to end," said Chief Veal, of the sanitary department, this morning.

The charges referred to are those made by ex-inspector Joiner.

It is said that Joiner, through his attorney, Mr. Frank Arnold, is now preparing a brief to be read before the city council, in which there is some sensational reading.

In the brief, it is said, Joiner will charge that Chief Veal has received commissions on various supplies bought for the city and makes it a point to favor certain firms.

It is further charged that during some time last year Chief Veal bought seven horses for the city and was supposed to pay $100 for each, but Joiner says that only $50 was paid, the other $50 going into Chief Veal's pocket.

The most sensational and grave part of the charges is where it is claimed Joiner accuses the chief with sustaining immoral relations with a young lady.

The whole matter will come before the city council next Monday, and a regular Lexow investigation may follow.

CHIEF VEAL'S SIDE.

Chief Veal was seen in his office this morning, but showed no sign of being worried over the charges. When asked for an interview, the chief said:

"The charges are lies from beginning to end. I wish it was so that they could get together and investigate the whole matter today. I am ready to stand the trial without making any preparation."

"There is nothing behind the charges, and when everything has been brought out, you will see that there are others besides Joiner who are making this fight, and all for political ends."

"I am under the direction of the board of health. All supplies are bought after bids are filed with the board—the board passing on all of them. I only carry out the instruction of the board."

"Joiner was discharged several weeks ago for neglect of duty—drinking while on duty was the fault. The board of health discharged him and not I."

"Now as to the part of the charges that refer to any immoral relations with a young lady, I say it is a lie in the strictest terms. The charge is too absurd to give it any thought."

"I have no fear as to results in this attack on me. If an investigation is made, I will have no trouble in proving every charge is false."

WORKMEN'S CLOSE GALL.

THIRTY NEARLY DROWN BY THE CAVING IN OF A TUNNEL.

Water Rushed in the Excavation and Was Almost Completely and Will Result in an Immense Loss to the Contractor.

Chicago, February 23.—Thirty workmen narrowly escaped death in the Sixty-eighth street water tunnel yesterday by the caving in of the shell almost midway between the intermediate and outer cribs, two miles distant from each other. Within a few minutes the tunnel was filled with water, but the workmen all reached the shaft in time and were saved.

The influx of water at the time when the work was almost completed will result in immense loss to the contractors, who had already experienced a great deal of trouble in the undertaking. It is feared that the cave may necessitate the building of a new tunnel between the cribs, although Assistant City Engineer Wilcox, who was at the scene soon after the disaster, said he believed the matter could be remedied by air pressure. At any rate the delay will be great. The burst today was the result of an explosion of gas in the tunnel two weeks ago, when two of the workmen were seriously burned. Ross, MaRae & Ross are the contractors and will suffer the loss.

GRUSHED BY HIS MILL.

PRESIDENT OF BOYDEN LUMBER CO. CAUGHT IN THE SHAFT.

Dragged into the Revolving Wheels, He Receives Injuries from Which He Will Die—His Life Was Insured for Half a Million.

St. Louis, Mo., February 23.—Word has reached here of the death of John R. Boyden, president of the Boyden Lumber Company, of St. Louis, with mills at Neelyville, Ark.

Mr. Boyden left here Saturday night for Neelyville and has been inspecting some machinery. While thus engaged his clothing became entangled in the shafting and he was so badly crushed that he died.

Mr. Boyden was very wealthy. In addition to his large property holdings, his life was insured for $500,000.

Rich oil wells have just been discovered in the forest of Douglass, at the extremity of the Lac Amnery, in Upper Savoy. This promises vastly to increase the prosperity of that picturesque corner of France.

A NEW TRIAL FOR WALLER

Decision Reversed in the Case of a Bibb County Murderer.

SEQUEL TO A BLOODY FIGHT

Charley Waller and Tom H. Smith Met at a Wedding and Engaged in a Duel and Waller Shot Smith Five Times, Killing Him, for Which He Was Convicted on Trial in Macon.

Charley Waller, the Bibb county murderer, will get the benefit of a new trial. The supreme court decided against the court below in his case this morning, and he will escape the life sentence imposed upon him for the present.

Charley Waller and Tom H. Smith became engaged in a quarrel on November 8, 1896, at a wedding near the line of Bibb and Monroe counties, and Smith fired two shots at Waller, who fired five shots at his antagonist, wounding him fatally. Smith lived about twenty-four hours and died from the effects of his wounds.

On trial Waller was convicted with a recommendation, and a sentence of imprisonment for life was imposed upon him. The decision handed down this morning was as follows:

THE DECISION.

"Waller v. The State. Before Judge Felton. Bibb superior court.

"Fish, J.—I. There being on the trial of an indictment for murder, evidence which if credible would have warranted a finding that the slayer of the deceased, upon a sudden quarrel, each being armed with a deadly weapon, mutually engaged in a mortal combat, each using his weapon and intending to kill the other therewith, it was the duty of the judge, with or without a request, to give in charge to the jury the law of voluntary manslaughter as related to the doctrine of 'mutual combat,' and the omission to do so is cause for a new trial, where the accused was convicted of murder."

"2. In such a case merely reading to the jury the sections of the code relating to manslaughter did not sufficiently instruct them as to the law applicable to the issues involved."

"Judgment reversed. All concurring."

"John R. Cooper and Marion Harris, for plaintiff in error."

"J. M. Terrell, attorney general, and Robert Hodges, solicitor, contra."

"TOUGHED" FOR A DIAMOND

COL. W. A. HEMPHILL ROBBED BY CROOKS ON A STREET CAR.

He Was on His Way Home from the Theater—Other Similar Cases Have Been Reported—Three Arrests Made.

Pickpockets are becoming exceedingly bold in and about Atlanta, and they clapped the climax of brazen effrontery last evening when they "toughed" the business manager of The Atlanta Constitution for a fine diamond stud worth at least $100.

Colonel W. A. Hemphill boarded a Peachtree car at the Grand and was on his way home. Four suspicious looking crooks got on the car at the same time, but no special attention was paid to them. Colonel Hemphill wishes he had made a minute and close mental inventory of their appearance, for when he reached home he found that his diamond stud had been slipped from his shirt front. The robbery was reported at police headquarters and the detectives will make every effort to recover the diamond.

Other similar robberies and several cases of pocket-picking have been reported to the police recently, among them being one by Mr. W. F. Fazio, who had his pocket picked in the union depot a few days ago. The detectives have made three arrests of suspicious characters and more will follow.

INJURED BY A FALLING POLE.

A Lineman Is Seriously Hurt and Narrowly Escapes Being Killed.

Waycross, Ga., February 23. Special to The Evening Constitution. Roy Walden, a lineman of the Waycross Telephone Company, was dangerously injured yesterday by the falling of a telephone pole.

His back was sprained and he was bruised on his face and body. Dr. G. F. Folks is attending the young man and he thinks there is chance for his recovery.

Walden is a son of Mr. Charles Walden and has been in the employ of the Waycross Telephone Company for over a year.

LINE EXTENDED.

The Telephone Communications Now Reach Big Hurricane Creek.

Waycross, Ga., February 23. Special to The Evening Constitution. The Southern Telephone Company has reached Big Hurricane creek, beyond Blackshear, with the Savannah extension, and on account of the freshets in the creek work has been suspended for a day or two.

MRS. WEBSTER DEAD.

Waycross, Ga., February 23. Special to The Evening Constitution. Mrs. Webster died at her home in this city yesterday. The funeral and interment occurred this morning.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Three Cases Passed Upon by the Court and Decisions Rendered.

In addition to the Waller and Brooks cases the following decisions were handed down from the supreme court this morning:

Garnier v. State. Before Judge Hutchins. Gwinnett superior court. Judgment reversed. All justices concurring. N. L. Hutchins, Jr., F. R. Walker for plaintiff in error; C. R. Brand, solicitor general, contra.

Humphries v. State. Before Judge Felton. Bibb superior court. Judgment reversed. All concurring. Hope Polhill, for Marion Harris, for plaintiff in error; Robert Hodges, solicitor, contra.

Harrison v. State. Before Judge Hart. Baldwin superior court. Judgment affirmed. All concurring. Robert & Pottle for plaintiffs in error. H. G. Lewis solicitor general by Anderson, Felton & Davis, contra.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who has not been very well of late, has gone to Ajaccio for the remainder of the winter. The climate of Corsica is exceedingly mild, and the baroness was greatly benefited by her residence there last season.

WEATHER

The storm which has been moving north-easterly during the past two days, central last night in the upper Ohio valley, has reached the New England States, and is followed by an extensive area of high barometer and a cold wave of considerable energy from the northwest. This high is central this morning in the Dakotas and Nebraska, and the pushing southward with considerable energy. Zero temperature prevails in Nebraska, while in the Dakotas it is 14 and 10 degrees below zero this morning. Its effects will be felt in this section during the ensuing thirty-six hours. We will not get the full effects of the cold wave as it will probably move a little too far north, but we will experience considerable lower temperature tonight and Wednesday.

SPANIARDS DRIVEN FROM STRONGHOLDS

Cubans Make a Night Attack on Artemisa and Capture Three Forts, Which Were Blown Up and Destroyed, the Spanish Loss Being Over Three Hundred Men.

CUBANS ARE BECOMING MORE REVENGEFUL

They Send Back the Ears of Captured Guerrillas, Greatly Incensed Over the Recent Sale of Cuban Women and Girls, Which Took Place in a Spanish Camp. Other News from the Seat of War.

New York, February 23.—A dispatch to The World from Havana via Jacksonville says:

News was received late Sunday night of an attack on Artemisa by portions of General Rivera's forces, in which the Spanish forces occupying two of the forts were forced to retreat and the forts were blown up and destroyed.

The Cubans advanced near night fall, their advance being discovered just as they reached the outer trenches. The Spaniards poured in a hot fire, but the Cubans relied on their machetes and fiercely dashed in.

SPANISH RANKS BROKEN.

The fierceness of the charge broke the Spanish ranks and the troops fled into the second fort, a triangular earthwork, closely followed by the victorious Cubans. Here a most sanguinary fight occurred, the soldiers struggling together in a hand-to-hand combat for some time.

The Spaniards finally retreated, though in good order, to a third fortification, whose strength was such that the Cubans did not dare attack it.

Looting the Spanish camps in the forts, many of the stores and two Spanish storehouses in the town, the Cubans retired.

It is reported that the Cubans lost 123 men wounded or killed, while the Spanish loss was more than 300.

SEND BACK THEIR EARS.

The Cubans captured eighteen guerrillas and the next day sent back their ears, it is asserted, to the Spanish command with the message that all Spanish dogs who butcher and sell Cuban women should be served in that way.

It is understood that the captured men were tortured.

The Cubans there are greatly incensed over a recent sale of Cuban girls in a Spanish camp and have no opportunity for revenge.

LEE'S RESIGNATION.

Manner of This Government's Treatment of His Request and Advice the Cause of It.

New York, February 23.—A dispatch from Key West says:

Consul General Lee, as was reported yesterday, has resigned.

He determined some time ago that unless certain urgent requests of his were granted he would leave Cuba and the final slighting of his asking for instructions for the demand of the release of all Americans imprisoned in Cuba was the last act he would quietly submit to.

It has been long known that the policy of the present administration in dealing with the various Cuban outrages that have occurred has been very trying to self-respect and his ideas of national honor.

Consul General Lee has also asked that warships be sent to Cuba, but this has been left unconsidered by the state department and the situation has been too galling to him to quietly submit to.

He, therefore, believed that his only course was to resign, which he has done. His resignation is now on its way to Washington by rail.

It is understood, however, that certain conditions are mentioned under which it may be withdrawn.

SHERMAN SEES OLNEY.

The Next Secretary of State Questions the Retiring One About State of Cuban Affairs.

Washington, February 23.—Secretary Olney spent an hour in his office yesterday asserting his private papers, which were being boxed for transportation to Boston.

Senator Sherman, his successor expectant, interrupted him, for a few moments to inquire whether anything unusually aggravating had occurred in regard to our

GOV. BUSHNELL SPEAKS.

SAYS HE HAD DETERMINED ON HANNA'S APPOINTMENT LONG AGO.

He Has Written to Hanna, but Has Not Received Reply—A Personal Friend of His and He Has Known Him Long Time.

Cincinnati, O., February 23.—Governor Asa S. Bushnell, who attended the sessions of the Sons of the Revolution yesterday, was asked to say something about his announcement concerning Mr. Hanna. "Well, I had really determined upon the appointment of Mr. Hanna some time ago," he said, "but I could not appoint him as there was no vacancy, but the interest in the matter becoming so great I considered that it would ease the public mind and be in the interest of harmony in the republican party to make the announcement of my intention."

"I have not heard from Mr. Hanna, as I wrote him and mailed the letter Sunday night. He would get it this morning. Mr. Hanna has been my personal friend for many years, and I make the announcement of his coming appointment with great satisfaction."

"Yes, Mr. Kurtz has been considered as have several others, probably a half dozen names. But Mr. Kurtz never announced himself as a candidate. What was done for him was done entirely by his friends, who wanted to see him go to the senate. "Lieutenant Governor Jones was also considered, but he asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration. So it is a mistake to say that only Mr. Hanna and Mr. Kurtz had been considered. There was no deal and there are no factional differences."

NEW FOREST RESERVATIONS

THE PRESIDENT SETS ASIDE THIRTEEN NEW ONES.

Does This on Washington's Birthday and on the Recommendation of Secretary Francis—All Situated in the West.

Washington, February 23.—President Cleveland celebrated the 16th anniversary of the birth of the first president of the republic by issuing thirteen executive orders which are far-reaching in their effect and will be remembered for many years to come.

On the recommendation of Secretary Francis and a forestry commission of the National Academy of Sciences, the president, on February 22, 1897, signed and promulgated thirteen proclamations establishing thirteen additional forest reservations containing an aggregate area of 21,379,840 acres.

The reservations are in South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Utah and California.

CUBANS CAPTURE BAYAM.

Discontent in Spanish Army on Account of Non Arrival of Pay.

Havana, February 23.—The large arrears of pay which is due the army in Cuba, and the discontent caused by this, has culminated in open disobedience to the Spanish ranks to the Cienfuegos district.

The insurgents in the eastern end of the island have captured Bayam, an important town in Santiago.

GEORGIA COLLEGES RECOGNIZED.

Mr. Donald Harper Has Been Honored by the French Government.

It has been said that no diploma from a southern university would receive recognition in Europe, except that of the University of Virginia.

That this statement is fallacious and also that no distinction is made between southern and northern universities, is proven by the official recognition on February 4, 1897, by the French government through its minister of public instruction, Monsieur Rambaud, of Mr. Donald Harper, who graduated at Mercer, taking a bachelor of arts course, and also at the University of Georgia, where he took bachelor of law.

It also appears that these diplomas are not the first from southern colleges to be officially recognized in France, but among the few of any of the United States, he was accorded a degree by the government of France.

This is not only quite a distinction and an honor for Mr. Harper, but also a tribute to the educational institutions of the south.

In France, therefore, a graduate of the University of Georgia or of Mercer university has every advantage that may be accorded to any American institute of learning.

This has, therefore, been a much disputed question, but now it is settled beyond a doubt that the foreign powers are beginning to realize the great work going on in our colleges and hereafter a graduate of a southern college will receive as much distinction abroad as a graduate of any other college.

AN INCREASE OF THE NAVY

Over a Million and a Half Dollars More Appropriated for Next Year Than for the Past Year.

PAY-ROLL HAS BEEN ENLARGED

The Report Discusses the Question of Armor Plate and the Dealing with Manufacturers.

A GOVERNMENT PLANT IS NEEDED

The Building of the Full Quota of Battleships Will Be Pushed Forward as Rapidly as the State of the National Finance Will Permit.

Washington, February 23.—The naval appropriation bill, as reported to the house by the committee on naval affairs, makes an appropriation of $32,165,234, which is $1,602,573 more than the appropriation for the current year, and $2,600,702 below the estimate of the navy department.

The principal increases are $174,512 for pay of the navy on account of the additional force provided last year and $141,870 for the additional requirements for equipments of new vessels. On the other hand the amount for the bureau of ordnance is reduced by $280,500; for public works by $73,535; for construction and repairs $133,000, and for the naval academy, $32,500.

ARMOR AND ARMAMENT.

The increase in the aggregate amount carried by the bill is due to the appropriations under the head of "increase of the navy." These are as follows: Construction and machinery, $5,925,339—a reduction of $945,421 from the amount for the current year; equipments, $162,528—$74,372 less, making a total reduction of $1,019,613.

Under "armor and armament" there is appropriated the sum of $7,220,796, which is an increase of $2,849,342. The report refers to the controversy regarding armor plate; reviews the investigations of the subject made by Secretary Herbert and says:

"The committee coincides with the secretary in feeling the pride in the achievement of establishing the production of armor in the United States and believes that sound policy requires that our government, like those of other great nations, should deal with sufficient liberality with the managers of the great armor plants to keep their work available as the need of such facilities for furnishing material may continue. It also feels much gratification that American enterprise, invention and skill has enabled us to lead the world in the quality of the production of armor plates."

QUESTION OF COSTS.

"In dealing with this question of cost the committee has regarded it as one of such technical character that the information at its command is not sufficiently definite, to enable it to fix with certainty a price per ton upon such a product of manufacture, and it has been indisposed to do so. After very careful consideration therefore, it has seemed to the committee the natural and wisest course to regard the secretary's report to congress as in substance and purport the department's estimates after careful investigation of the amount of expenditure that in its opinion can properly be authorized for a certain purpose, and in that view a computation has been made on the basis of the secretary's conclusion, and a paragraph has been inserted in the bill appropriating the lump sum thus indicated as the limit of the cost for which he may make contracts for the purchase of the entire amount of the armor required by the plans and specifications for the three battleships authorized at the last session. It is believed that this provision has been so safeguarded as to enable the department to carry into effect the policy declared in its report."

"The committee for various reasons that seem to it to carry great weight, deems it expedient at this time and hopes it will not prove necessary to provide for the construction, purchase or lease of a government plant for the manufacture of armor plate.

BUILDING OF BATTLESHIPS.

"The committee is unanimous in the desire to push forward the construction of our full quota of battleships and other needed vessels for naval defense and the protection of the national rights and honor as rapidly as possible, but in view of the present condition of the national finances and other important considerations has reluctantly refrained from recommending the authorizing of any new vessels in this bill, believing that such recognition of the public exigencies at this time will insure an even more liberal renewal of the work of building up of our navy as one of the greatest features of a restoration of national prosperity in the near future."

FORAKER IS DISSATISFIED

HAS NOT SUBMITTED GRACEFULLY TO HANNA'S APPOINTMENT.

And the Result Will Be That He and Chairman Kurtz Will Be Shat Out in the Distribution of Offices Under McKinley.

Columbus, O., February 23.—Both Senator Foraker and State Chairman Kurtz are showing, by refusing to endorse the selection of M. A. Hanna to succeed Mr. Sherman in the senate as announced by Governor Bushnell last night, that the selection is displeasing to them.

A credible report is in circulation here to the effect that Mr. Hanna's influence was thrown to Hanna in the consideration of control of federal patronage in southern Ohio.

If it is true Senator Foraker will be shut out completely in the distribution of offices under McKinley and the whole matter controlled by Senator Hanna and George B. Cox.

DR. PARKHURST ILL.

OVERWORK CAUSES COLLAPSE AND REST IS PRESCRIBED.

He Has Been Working Very Hard of Late and Contracted What He Believed To Be a Cold, but Is Nervous Prostration.

New York, February 23.—Nervous collapse, caused by overwork, is the physician's diagnosis of the case of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, who has been seriously ill for over a week in his home here.

There was a slight change for the better in the doctor's condition Monday, but his mental and physical condition are acutely affected and it will probably be a long time before he can return to his pulpit.

Dr. Parkhurst's friends and relatives have been worried about him for some time and they predicted time and again a nervous collapse, due to excessive labor.

The doctor reached home a week ago Friday thoroughly worn out, saying that he feared he had contracted a bad cold. So ill was he, in fact, that Mrs. Parkhurst insisted on his remaining at home on the following day to take a much needed rest.

The doctor also submitted to be examined by the family physician, Dr. Beebe, who said the symptoms resembled somewhat those of grip, but that in this case the trouble was nervous collapse, brought on by overwork.

Dr. Beebe prescribed perfect rest and quiet for an indefinite period.

ANOTHER CABINET MEMBER.

A New Portfolio May Be Created and Another Place May Have To Be Filled by New President.

Baltimore, February 23.—Captain George Johnson, of New York, a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, who is in the city for a few days, is authority for the statement that Senator Frye's bill to establish a department of commerce and manufactures, now pending in the United States senate, will be passed by congress and that the additional member of President-elect McKinley's official family has already been chosen.

The head of the new department, it is said, will be Mr. John H. Converse, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, of Philadelphia. He has been tendered the place by Major McKinley. It is asserted, contingent on the passage and approval of the bill.

William C. Hill is a colored sculptor of Washington, who, in good weather, works at street paving.

THE VOTE TO DATE FOR MOST POPULAR SCHOOL

Calhoun Street School Increases Its Lead Over the Walker Street, and There Is a General Upward Movement All Along the Line.

TERMS OF THE CONTEST.

The rules and conditions of the contest are as follows: Beginning February 13th, and continuing for sixty days, there will be printed every afternoon, on this page, a blank ballot, which may be used by any reader to vote for his favorite school.

The school receiving the most votes will be presented with a magnificent library of 300 volumes in a handsome case. The school may make its selection of books so far as can be arranged.

The ballot will contain space for the name of the school and for the name and address of the pupil securing the vote.

Each ballot will be dated the day of its publication, and no ballot will be received or counted unless it arrives at the office of The Evening Constitution within five days after it appears in the paper.

No vote of any sort will be received or counted unless written on the official ballot printed daily in The Evening Constitution.

To the boy and girl respectively, who send in the most votes, fine bicycles will be given.

Every reader is entitled to vote as early and as often as he cares to, and no restriction as to age or sex will interfere with the right of suffrage.

The contest will close on Tuesday, April 13th, and the presentation of the library and the bicycles will be made with honors suitable to the occasion during the succeeding ten days.

The coupons must be cut out, filled in plainly and distinctly and sent to The Evening Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., either by mail or messenger. They should be addressed:

Dan Stuart is Thinking Over the Proposition to Admit the Fair Sex

ing Out His Trainers—Some Lively Fighting in Philadelphia, Buffalo and New York.

Carson, Nev., February 23.—Bob Fitzsimmons came into Carson early Monday morning and spent a few hours in shopping and handballing. Ernest Roebor and Dan Hickey were put to work setting up the Cornishman's training apparatus in position at Cook's ranch. When Bob returned in the evening he warmed up for a few minutes with Hickey and took a short turn at the punching bag. His work will be very light for a few days until he becomes accustomed to the atmosphere.

What little he performed today did not seem to worry his breathing apparatus appreciably and the Australian protests that he does not feel any distressing effect after exertion. His chief concern is regarding the weather. Unless he can do a few miles on the road every day he feels that time is being wasted. Work on his half-mile track is being rushed.

Corbett put in a hard day's work. Up before 8 o'clock, he took a light breakfast, before wearing out his brother Joe at handball. Billy Woods was harnessed up in his life preserver and chest protector and punched about the court until he could no longer carry his trappings. McVey is still under blankets. Every visitor is invited to play handball or take a few drives at the champion with gloves, but volunteers are not plentiful.

Two hours of handball, boxing and bagpunching attracted a large crowd of spectators to the quarters in the afternoon, among them being a number of ladies. Secretary Wheelock has on his letters from men of more or less prominence in every state in the union asking that women be admitted to the carnival. A meeting of Stuart's advisers will shortly be held to consider the matter.

The mercury yesterday ranged from 3 below zero at daylight to forty above at 4 p. m. A fall to 15 below is predicted for the night.

SPIKE SULLIVAN WINS.

Knocks Out Joe Flaherty in the Fifth Round Before the Olympic Club, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Buffalo, February 23.—"Spike" Sullivan, of Boston, knocked out Joe Flaherty, of Lowell, Mass., in the fifth round before the Olympic Athletic Club last night. The contest was a fierce one from the start, both men landing hard and often; the mix-ups being particularly savage. Honors were pretty even for the first rounds, but Sullivan's heavy blows on the wind and jaw weakened Joe considerably. He was full of fight, however, to the end.

The next pair were Eddy Dally, of Baltimore, and Gilbert Goulette, of Duluth, who were to box ten rounds at 125 pounds. The boys were extremely clever. Goulette won in the seventh round on a foul.

KIDNAPED WRESTLERS.

Sophomores Fatten the Princeton Freshmen Wrestlers and Get Them All Out of Condition.

Princeton, N. J., February 23.—Both of the freshmen wrestlers who were kidnaped Sunday were freed yesterday, and one entered the contest. The lightweight wrestler was taken from his room on the campus, driven to the junction and sent with three sophomores to New Brunswick, where arrangements had been made for his reception.

The freshman wrestler was just within the limit of weight when he was taken away, and by good treatment, plenty of rich food and nothing to do the sophomores got his weight eight pounds over the lightweight limit. When he returned yesterday wrestling was out of the question.

The middleweight wrestler got away from his captors early in the morning and was able to enter the bout against the sophomore who lost. The sophomores won the wrestling contest, but it is thought that the tables would have been turned had the first choice for lightweight wrestling been allowed to enter the bout. No one has been summoned before the faculty for the kidnaping, but trouble is undoubtedly in store for the sophomores.

HANDLER BEST GIBBONS.

Knocks the Paterson Lad Out in the Fifteenth Round—Some Other Decisions.

New York, February 23.—The twenty-round boxing contest at 135 pounds between Austin Gibbons, of Paterson, N. J., and Jimmy Handler, of Newark, N. J., at the Broadway Club last night, resulted in a victory for Handler, who knocked Gibbons out in the fifteenth round.

The ten-round contest between Jack Norton, of New York, and Joe Elms, colored, of Boston, at 115 pounds, resulted in a victory for Elms, and the ten-round bout at 125 pounds, between Eddie Hayes and Sam

Bolen, colored, both of this city, was stopped by the referee, after one minute and seventeen seconds of fighting in the ninth round, and Bolen got the decision.

DOG SHOW OPENS.

New York's Canines Exhibited in Madison Square Garden—Show
a Howling Success.

New York, February 23.—The twenty-first annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club opened at Madison Square Garden yesterday, and will be continued four days.
There was a good attendance in the afternoon and the garden was crowded at night.

The exhibition is larger than any of its predecessors. The purses aggregate $15,000.

SOME SHARP FIGHTING.

Sober Philadelphia Sports Witness a Couple of Lively Goes Between the Hard Hitters.

Philadelphia, February 23.—Dan Creedon, the Australian middleweight, was matched to meet Jack O'Brien, of Lewistown, Me., in a six-round fight at the Arena last night, but as the Maine man failed to show up, Dick Burley, of New York, was substituted for him. Burley is not in Credon's class, and at the end of the first round announced that he had enough.

In the preliminary bouts Tom McCune, of Detroit, and Jerome Quigley, the local lightweight, boxed a good six-round draw. In the second round of the fight between Billy Payne, of Baltimore, and George Green, of Dakota, the latter was knocked through the ropes and off the platform. The blow and the fall finished the Dakota man's fighting for the night.

ELECTRIC EYES.

New Device for the Use of Operating Surgeons.

From The San Francisco Examiner.

The latest adjunct that science gives to the surgical operator is an electric eye.
Strictly speaking, it is not an eye at all,
but rather a sort of searchlight, which is used to aid the human eye in delicate surgical operations.

Ordinary surgeons are handicapped in their work by the fact that they cannot see distinctly the parts upon which they must operate. The "electric eye" of the human body is such that many instances no light can be put directly upon the particular part of the human anatomy that is to be operated upon. The eye can see, to the extent of human capability, but in intermediate operations, however strong the light in the operating theater may be, the rays lack that penetration and power of concentration so necessary to delicate operations.

Professor Charles E. Quimby, of Bellevue hospital, New York, has patented this new aid to surgery. From an ordinary electric light wire a connection is made with this device, which fits the face much in the manner of a pair of spectacles. The appliance in itself consists of two small incandescent lamps, which are fitted, one above and the other below the eye of the operator.
They are so adjusted that the rays focus at a point sufficiently near the ordinary point of vision to throw all the power of the electric rays upon the point desired.

It is practically a portable searchlight adapted to the operating theater. The lamps are in the form of an annular glass globe, with an illuminating conductor. An insulated backing, consisting of a metal leather-lined band, which passes around the head, prevents the heat from affecting the operator, and at the same time holds the light in position and prevents any possible effect that otherwise the electricity might have upon the wearer. The lights move freely, and long glass tubes, than anything else. Within these tubes are placed the lamps, which can be adjusted to any desirable angle. When a direct downward ray is desired, a small reflector is fixed above the light and the rays thrown in the desired direction.

PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

Mrs. E. L. Klinger, of Albuquerque, N. M., is the owner of the "Little Queen" of New Mexico." She owns 125,000 head of cattle.

The town of Venosa, the ancient Venusium, which was the birthplace of Horace, the Roman poet, has decided to erect a monument to him.

Marie Pia, the Portuguese queen-dancer, wears the gold medal of a Lisbon humane society. It was granted her for jumping into the Tagus after a crocodile, when he was a little fellow. The queen is a very plain, but a very interesting woman.

Recent statistics maintain the reputation of the Society of Friends for longevity.
Of all the members of the society who died last year in Great Britain and Ireland, ranging in years from 1 to 10, the average was 60 years 6 months and 19 days.

The rumor that the Rev. Dr. Henry M.
Field was shortly to retire from his long editorial service, The New York Evangelist passing into other hands, is fortunately untrue. Though Dr. Field disposed of part of his interest to Freshbury, his friends three years ago, when a corporation was formed, no further change has been made or is thought of.

The corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will not attempt to fill the place of the late President Francis A. Walker at present. Professor James M.

has been chosen president of the faculty,
and the heads of the various departments will be expected to attend to them. This had been the policy under General Walker's administration.

The approach of the centenary of the high hat has led a Paris newspaper to interview the literary and artistic celebrities of the metropolis on the subject of masculine headgear. Jules Lemaitre, the critic and dramatist, says it is neither ornamental nor practical. He declares that the "ugly, inconvenient, heavy, and headache-producing" Carolus Duran calls it
"the last word of the horrible." The general consensus of opinion is emphatically against the "beaver."

Chemically the apple is composed of vegetable fiber, albumen, sugar, gum, chlorophyll, malic acid, gallic acid, lime and water. Furthermore, the apple contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable. The phosphorus is admirably adapted for renewing the essential nervous matter—lethargy of the brain and spinal cord. It is perhaps for this reason—though but rudely understood —that the Scandinavian traditions resented the apple as the food of the gods, who, when they felt themselves to be growing feeble and infirm, resorted to this fruit to renew their power of mind and body.

JACK PRINCE, CYCLISTS' FRIEND

Well Known Sporting Man Is at Work for the Wheelmen.

CYCLE CIRCLE IS COMPLETED

It Will Include Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Montgomery—Season Will Open Soon and the Races Will Continue for Several Months.

Jack Prince is the best friend to the cyclists in the south. He has interested himself in their welfare, and proposes to do everything in his power for their amusement and entertainment this spring and summer.

Mr. Prince is the originator and promoter of the southern bicycle circuit, which will open in Memphis on the 24 and 3d of April, and continue throughout the next seven months.

There are five live cities included in the bicycle circuit, which will contribute to its support. The cities are Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Atlanta and Montgomery.
These cities are located almost in a circle and it will not be the slightest trouble to make the circuit every eleven days, as is contemplated by Mr. Prince.

It is the intention of Mr. Prince to give

JOHN S. PRINCE,
Who Is Organizing a Southern Bicycle
Circuit for the Summer Months.

the southern circuit his entire time and attention, and every time the races come off here he will be in Atlanta to personally manage and direct them.

ALL RACES TO BE AT NIGHT

The building which will be used for the races here is one of the largest of the excellent buildings at Piedmont park, and position buildings at night and lights. All the races will occur at night and it is believed that this will serve to bring out hundreds of society people and others who will be free from business cares and duties and that the collection will be packed every evening when the races are in progress.

In each of the five cities Mr. Prince has met with great encouragement and he believes that the southern circuit is going to be the most successful bicycle circuit in existence this season. The people are greatly enthused over the prospects and will not be backward about giving aid which the promoter may need.

Mr. Prince is now in Memphis, but he will return to Atlanta in a few weeks and will bill the city for the opening races on April 9th and 10th, at which time he expects many visitors and intends to start things off with a rush.

DEATH OF MRS. BURCKHALTER.

An Aged and Well-Known Lady Passes Away.

Mrs. Mary H. Burckhalter, aged seventy-seven years, died yesterday at the residence of her son, Mr. W. R. Burckhalter, 436 Washington street. She had been suffering with a cancer for a long time, and for the past few months had been growing steadily worse.

She had lived in this city for many years and was well known to almost all of the old residents. She is survived by three granddaughters and one grandson. Mrs. J. C.
Matthews, of Augusta, and Mrs. Sallie Burckhalter and Miss Hilda Hutson are her granddaughters.

Mrs. Burckhalter was the widow of the late J. H. Burckhalter, who was well known in this city previous to his death, and who was a railroad contractor for many years.
Her remains were taken last night to Williston, S. C., at which place the funeral services and interment will occur today.

PRIMROSE AND WEST TONIGHT.

George Wilson, the highest salaried and most popular of minstrel performers, is one of the leading comedians of Primrose and West's minstrels, which company will appear tonight at the Lyceum theater. Mr.
Wilson has been at the head of a company of his own for a number of years, but the recent offer of Messrs. Primrose and West for the exclusive use of his services as a member of their organization was too tempting to resist. Mr. Wilson has a number of new songs and jokes this season with which to amuse the jaded public.

ED HOOKS MAKES BOND.

The young man who has been confined in the Fulton county jail for the past few days on the warrant sworn out by the Seaboard Air-Line railroad several years ago, was released yesterday afternoon on a $1,000 bond.

The signer was Mr. P. E. Griggs. The first bond which Hooks was compelled to give on which he was surrendered a few days ago, was $500, but the friends of the young man induced Judge Chandler to reduce the amount to $1,000. It is not likely that Hooks will ever be troubled about the matter again, as the officials of the Seaboard Air-Line show a decided disinclination to prosecute him and the entire case will probably be dropped.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Conference, Rally and Social at St.
John's Church Thursday Night.
The Atlanta Union of Epworth Leagues will hold a grand union rally and social at St. John's church, corner Pryor street and Georgia avenue, Thursday night, Feb-

in the city will be present and take part in the exercises and become better acquainted.

Professor W. R. Mackay, of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, will be present and lead the singing. Mr. Stanley M. Langdon will accompany the piano with his clarinet. The people of St. John's church know how to make people feel at home and have a good time. The public are invited to attend. The following is the program:

A General Insurance.
A ripple was caused recently in insurance circles throughout the country by the announcement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, of New York, that during 1897 they would give about $8,000,000 to holders of industrial policies (except between 1878 and 1882). This announcement was the result of the vast accumulation of profits by the company and was entirely gratuitous and unexpected; there being no clause in the policies demanding it. The extent of the operations of this company is simply enormous and in 1896 they paid $18 in death claims every minute during the year. Their increase in assets during the same period reached the immense sum of $5,000,000, while the reserve insurance written was $136,000,000. The company issues poli-rapid increase until the present. During this period there has been written about $3,000,000 in the ordinary and about 9,000

WOMEN'S SOCIETY

The Repose of Vere de Vere.

A certain fashionable doctor has announced to the world that American women are notably lacking in that repose which marks the elite of Vere de Vere. He says that they are well educated, well dressed and attractive, but they are the most nervous creatures in the world. There is a perpetual unrest and jerkiness in their manner which is a weariness to their fellow men.

The doctor, who has evidently had unpleasant experiences with nervous patients, says that it is tiresome to watch our women perpetually moving like gnats changing up and down in the sunshine. They expend so much energy in talking and walking—so much unnecessary energy—that it is not any wonder they have nervous breakdowns and a desire to make a specialty of that line, so to speak. When this wild, mad chase for money slows down and we have time to look around us a bit we will see what we can do in the way of the Vere de Vere, perhaps.

But the doctor is perhaps wrong in attributing this lack of repose especially to American women. A recent writer says that there is a deplorable lack of it in European aristocratic circles. An indication of the truth of this is found in the fact that the remark of a cynical Frenchman to the effect that he could always tell the difference between an actress and a countess by the superior refinement and good breeding of the actress was applauded.

Apocryphal of all this a funny little story is told, which runs in thiswise: "Not long ago an English dame of the old school, who had brought up her daughters in the traditional, admirable, insular and essentially British manner, got into a first-class carriage and a desire to mail with two of her daughters, and they arranged their various impedimenta in the neat, orthodox British fashion. Hardly were the three seated when the party rushed down to the platform, talking and laughing, calling each other 'Bilby' and 'Nell' and 'Tommy' and 'Polly,' and saying goodbye in noisy fashion to one of the lot, who was evidently intended to receive the rest.

"My dears," said the British matron, smiling with disapproval, those dreadful creatures are coming in here. They are evidently Americans. Do not on any account permit them to escape an acquaintance. I am told that they are most objectionable in that way. As the strangers scrambled in, and the guard slammed the door, matrons and daughters glared haughtily at the intruders, one of whom said, pleasantly: 'I fear we are crowding you, but there was no other carriage to be had.' There was no response. Another well-meant remark about moving some papers was also received with chilling hauteur. So, paying no further heed to the original inmates of the compartment, the new arrivals literally ate, drank and made merry to the intense and manifest disgust of the solemn trio, who exchanged glances expressive of their annoyance, furnishing obvious amusement to the presumed Americans, who, like naughty children, seemed greatly diverted by the situation, and rather tried to increase the ire of their companions de voyage by an overflow of hilarity.

"At Dover the two parties stopped at the same hotel, and crossed the next morning to Calais. But what a transformation scene on the steamer! The British matron met the noisy young folks with a beaming smile and a bow, to which a supercilious stare was the only response. The prim daughters proffered rods and other comforts, which were curtly refused. What was the cause of this sudden turning of the tables? Merely that the English matron, with the curiosity characteristic of her class, had examined the hotel register, and, to her dismay, had read 'Lord and Lady Pittsford,' 'the Duke of Mayfair' and 'The Hon'ble Miss Highwater.' The smartest of the smartest set in London! The intimate friends of R. B. J. The people of all others that they were most dying to know!"

The McKinley Jacket.

Mrs. McKinley has begun to undergo the "penalty of royalty," but others are of named after her and a linen collar. Soon there will be a Mrs. McKinley hat. But one thing at a time is enough. The collar is part of the jacket, it goes with it, and both count as one.

This jacket is a little longer than waist length. It is tight fitting at the back and very flaring at the hips. Its sleeves are the new linen balloon sleeves with all the fullness crowded at the top.

The distinguished characteristic of the jacket is that it is trimmed with broad black braiding set on in double-breasted style. The buttons are placed upon small braided tabs.

The linen collar is remarkable for its height and neatness. It hugs the chin closely. It is designed for slender-throated women like the new president's wife, and is not nearly so becoming to women with full, fat throats, unless the neck happens to be long.

Mrs. McKinley's own jacket is of a dark blue and brown, and still others have a touch of white in them.

Kindergartens.

The Rome Georgian has the following interesting ideas about kindergartens and free schools:

"The children who attend these schools have become the favorites of their parents and are child refiners. The ideas of cleanliness, order and how to see and how to think are carried home, and the ignorant parents become interested. Dr. Henry, president of the Teachers' college, says: 'The teachers for the schools should be of the sort who will not fall in school teaching methods; not get in the way of taking from the child its individuality. They must have above all the mother spirit and combine instinct with insight.

"Froebel, the great originator of the kindergarten system, says: 'It shall give them employment, suited to their nature, strengthen their bodies, exercise their senses, employ their waking minds, make them acquainted judiciously with nature fondness for getting spots upon his clothing. Vest and collar of marine blue serge can be alternated with the white, and will be found most serviceable; or, on a very patriotic occasion, like Washington's birthday, a red vest should be worn.

Worn by Colonial Dame.

At a meeting of the Colonial Dames of Washington, not long ago, the hostess received in a very fascinating gown of nickel gray and white, with enough black to meet fashion's requirements, for it is absolutely essential that there shall be a little black in every costume.

The skirt worn by this colonial dame was nickel and black stripe, the stripe being in satin upon the nickel silk material. Around the foot was a broad band of black satin, put on as though it was a facing. There was no "binding" visible upon the skirt.

The waist, of black satin, had a vest of softest nickel silk gathered full under a broad velvet belt. Great sleeve puffs of the black satin reached to the elbow.

A very dressy addition was given the waist by a tiny bolero and collette of white satin embroidered in seed pearls, edged with jet. The pearls, which could be imitated, by the way, nicely in wax beads, were sewed in in conventional designs and in the center of each figure was a large jet ornament. At the neck was a knot of satin ribbon setting up in the throat like a stock.

Fauntleroy to Date.

The small boy has a more grown-up look than when Mrs. Burnett made a Fauntleroy of him years ago. Fauntleroy suits are still made, but, like other styles, the styles change.

A Fauntleroy party suit for a boy of six was of white serge, with blue stripes of marine blue in groups of three. The little suit was cut sailor pattern, with sleeves big enough to be almost girlish.

The collar of this suit was of white serge, with stars worked in marine blue upon the corners. A vest and collar of white serge gave a very dressed-up appearance to the little suit. The trousers were long, as is the style now in all suits for boys over three years old.

It might be added that both collar and vest could be taken out and renewed, should the boy show an un-Fauntleroy

IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

Miss Annie Wright is spending the week in Athens.

Miss Nellie Forbes spent Monday in the city.

Mrs. Orlando McLendon spent Saturday in the city.

Miss Ellen Hillyer is visiting friends in Athens.

Mothers, Nixon and Morse, of Emory college, spent Sunday and Monday in the city.

Miss Florence McElwee, of Athens, Tenn., spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Nixon, at the Kimball house.

Miss Lassiter, who has been visiting Miss Alice May Holbrook, has returned to her home in Augusta.

Dr. F. A. Wynn, a prominent young physician of Rome, who has, until recently, been associated with Dr. Henry Battey, is visiting friends in the city.

The Denthick Music Club will hold its first regular meeting one week from this evening in the Phillips & Crew's music hall. An interesting programme will be given.

Messages came from Mrs. William Dickinson, who is one of the high officials present at the Daughters of the American Revolution congress in Washington, saying that the entertainments being given the D. A. R. members are most brilliant and interesting.

Mrs. Allie Tenney, the beautiful daughter of Mrs. George Oliver Tenney, gave an entertainment last Friday. It was the occasion of her twelfth birthday. A number of her young friends were present and enjoyed the occasion very much.

Mrs. B. W. Wrenn, who has been visiting Mrs. Charles Sumner Clark in Pittsburgh and Mrs. H. Plant in New York, will be at the Kimball this month. After a short stay in the city who expects to join Colonel Wrenn in Florida.

Among the pleasant entertainments yesterday in honor of the national holiday was a delightful candy pulling given by Miss Louie Randolph Gordon to the little boys and girls composing her Sunday school class. The occasion was made charming by many interesting devices of the young hostess, and was greatly enjoyed by the small guests. Among those present were Misses Virgil White, Willie Boone, Minnie Goodwin, Magnolia Goodwin, Alice Allen, Julia Humphries, Nellie Hairston, Emma Grant, Mammie Grant, Sallie Giddings, Eloise McLean, Cecil Allen and Master Horace McLean.

A delightful birthday party was given last evening by Mr. Ralph Black. It was in many ways one of the most unique and enjoyable entertainments to be imagined. The fact that yesterday was the birthday anniversary of "the father of his country" made many interesting features possible and appropriate. The entertainment was given at the home of Mrs. Richard Peters, the grandmother of the young host. The floral decorations, which were superb, were from Mrs. Peters's greenhouse, and consisted principally of palms. Supplementing these were artistically draped United States flags. The ballroom walls were draped with an immense flag. The supper table was decorated in a most beautiful fashion. The flowers were red and white carnations, tied with blue ribbons. The center piece was a small cherry tree with a hatched at the foot of it. A large birthday cake with sixteen candles, signifying the number of years the young hostess has lived, was a pretty feature of the menu served.

The reception committee was composed of Miss Louise Black, Mr. Logan Clark, Miss Susan Calhoun, Mr. Austell Thornton, Miss Myrtle Scott.

Dancing was one of the pleasant features of the evening.

The younger members of society gave a delightful dance at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Amorous last evening.

Miss Annie Fitten is spending a few days at home. She will return to Athens next week.

Mrs. J. Frank Meador has gone to Macon to visit her uncle, Mr. William Lee Eves, for a week.

Miss Annie Lou Hawkins is spending a few days at home.

The Ladies Auxiliary and Ladies' Aid Society of St. Philip's cathedral, will give an elaborate reception in the chapel tomorrow evening. Bishop and Mrs. Nelson and Rev. and Mrs. Knight will assist in receiving.

Miss Lucy Peel will not return from New Orleans until after mardi gras.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Representative Bellamy S. Sutton has introduced a bill in the Indiana legislature compelling the housekeepers of that state to permit their bills of fare in English. "I object," he said in a speech supporting the bill, "to having the only name down on a hotel bill for goose livers to be patty day for grassy."

Judge Pritchard, who has been re-elected senator from North Carolina, was one of two barefooted boys who set out from a little East Tennessee mountain town to seek their fortunes twenty-three years ago. The entire worldly possessions of the pair it is said, consisted of a silver dime, a bottle of brandy and some pones of corn bread.

"It was not I alone," and Carmichael blushed very becomingly. "A dozen of us boys were in love, as we thought, with her, and tried to please her every way we knew."

"When we were fighting away at college and in offices, and had no home to offer a man, a rich man came in and carried off Harry. I dined with her last spring. So, you see, my heart was not broken; but she is as pretty as ever," concluded Carmichael, stoutly. "Only that was not love."

"And afterwards?" persisted Kate.

"For awhile he was silent, and then he took Kate's hand and turned away his head."

"You wish to know everything, and you have a right, for if a woman marries a man he ought to come to her with clean hands. I do, thank God, for his grace alone kept me from falling."

Then Kate understood that he was not speaking of any ordinary love affair, but of some darker, sadder experience, and her hand pressed his.

"She lived in the same house, and I do not think that she was bad, but she tempted me, and I . . . I am no better than other men, but the thought of my mother came to me, and I . . . I walked the streets all night . . . that is all. I am a pure man; there is no other secret to tell you, Kate."

His voice was broken with the agony of the confession, and the perspiration was on his forehead.

"Thank you, John, for this confidence; you are a good man, and I mean to be worthy of you." As they went back to the lodge the woods were full of song, and the general was so touched by the softness of Kate's face that he repented himself of his fears.

They quarreled once, however, that summer, and it was over Lord Hay, whom you had a good man, and I mean to be worthy of you." As they went back to the lodge the woods were full of song, and the general was so touched by the softness of Kate's face that he repented himself of his fears.

"If you wish, that Lord Hay is a good sportsman for big game or small, on foot or horseback; you do him no more than justice—you know what he has done on the moor, and I have seen his tiger skins at Kilpatrick castle."

"I have no doubt that he can kill," and Carmichael allowed himself to be sarcastic—a mistake in speaking to a woman.

"If you now mean," continued Kate, unheeding, "that Lord Hay is coarse or cruel or vulgar or ignorant or anything else unbecoming a gentleman, then I beg to say that you do not know what you are saying and that you are doing an injustice to the son of my father's friend."

"He never struck me as a man who knew very much, but perhaps I was unfortunate in my subjects; I have not had the advantage of noble birth and the game laws."

"Very likely Lord Hay has not read as many books as you," Kate was now in a passion—and does not know about so many things, but one thing he knows which you do not."

"What is that, may I ask?"—with laboring calmness, for Carmichael was also getting hot at what he considered an unnecessary eulogium on one who at least had been his rival.

"Good manners," and Kate's accent was incisive and bitter, "which ought to prevent any man attacking another behind his back. Twice I remember Lord Hay mentioning your name, and on both occasions with courtesy and respect. Why should you bear ill will to him?"

"Why should I speak of anyone, even my Lord Viscount Hay, with freedom to my betrothed, and yet should you defend him with such temper?"

"Because he is, and if he allow it, ever will be my friend. Do you understand?"

"And you, sir," said our Kate, briskly tapping him on the cheek, "let me put you through your catechism. How did a duncie Free Kirk minister ever allow himself to fall in love with a glaik Jacobite girl? Answer me that, John Knox. When was it? Tell me true."

"The first minute my eyes saw you in Muirtown Station, I began to love you, then."

"It was your good heart really won me, John," and Kate's voice had a more serious note, "for every person in the Glen loves you. Marjorie used to show me the caps you brought her from Muirtown, and I saw the children run to you one day upon the road; and Dr. Davidson had a new story every week about some kindness you had done, and Margaret Howe told me how good a son you had been to your mother, and about the burning of that sermon. When she told me that, I . . . I loved you."

The lark high in the sky poured out his melody, and now the pigeons have begun to coo in the wood.

"And you, sir," said our Kate, briskly tapping him on the cheek, "let me put you through your catechism. How did a duncie Free Kirk minister ever allow himself to fall in love with a glaik Jacobite girl? Answer me that, John Knox. When was it? Tell me true."

THE COURTING OF KATE CARNEGIE BY IAN MACLAREN

(Copyright, 1897, by John Watson.)

The Rev. John Carmichael, a brilliant and energetic young minister, in charge of the Free Kirk at Drumtochty, is engaged to be married to Kate Carnegie, a spirited girl, who is accustomed to having her own way, and who has opinions of her own. They are very much in love with each other, but General Carnegie and his friend, Dr. Davidson, are doubtful whether they will make a harmonious pair. The general and the doctor discuss the matter, but cannot arrive at a satisfactory conclusion. While they are talking Kate and her lover are down by the river Tochy. They ask each other what qualities in each suited the other's love. Kate confesses that it was Carmichael's individuality, as well as his personal characteristics, which won her love.

Today's Stock and Cotton Exports

LIVERPOOL IMPROVED NEW YORK IS HIGHER

Fluctuations Cover a Narrow Range--Stocks Higher but Dull--Wheat Active and a Fraction Lower.

COTTON.
Spots in Liverpool opened quiet but firm with sales of 5,000 bales at 2 1/2-3 1/2 for mid-ling. The second cable quoted an advance of 1-1/2 and additional sales of 2,000 bales; middling 2 1/2-1/2, sales 10,000 bales.
Arrivals opened quiet and steady at about 1/2 point advance, the second cable quoting a further advance of 1 point. The close was steady at 1 point improvement over yesterday's close.
New York has had two days' rest, but the improvement at the opening of this morning barely responded to Liverpool's advance. March opened at 6.90, against 6.86 at the close on Saturday. There was a feeble advance later, that option selling up to 6.92 after which the price receded to 6.88 and afterwards sold up to 6.86. Tomorrow notice day on March.
May opened at 7c, against 6.97 at the close on Saturday, advanced to 7.03, declined to 6.98 and at noon ruled at 7c.
Liverpool cables that the market there improved on a more favorable outlook in the political news and on more favorable news from Manchester.
The following are the receipts at the ports today compared with the same day last year:

New York, February 23--Rumors are current that the reorganization of Hooking Valley has been determined upon and that Morgan interests will be prominent therein and will probably control the plan. The same rumor says that March coupons under the 5 per cent bonds will be bought by J. P. Morgan & Co. No definite statements of an authoritative character have been obtained on the matter, and so far the rumors seem to be mainly gossip.
London, 4 p. m.--Americans closed steady. The break in tobacco, leather preferred and sugar is on the story that the New Jersey authorities were going to enact laws preventing them using that state for the obtaining of charters.
The Leather Company directors are now in session, considering the dividend.
Northwestern earnings for the month of January, decrease, $353,233.
The feeling in Great Britain is running very high against the Greeks. British consols sold down to 11 1/4, but recovered to 11 3/4.

Chicago, February 23--Board's opening: Liverpool--Spot wheat quiet and 1/4 lower; futures quiet 1/4 lower. Spot corn dull and 1/4 lower; futures easy and 1/4 lower. Board's close: London--English and French markets steady. Wheat and corn quiet but steady. On passage wheat steady; corn quiet but steady. Berlin--Wheat unchanged; corn quiet but steady.
World's official shipments 3,264,000, against 3,837,000 last week and 4,388,000 last year. On passage wheat 1,384,000 bushels, corn increase 1,600,000.
Receipts at Chicago--Wheat 40 cars, corn 238 cars, oats 37 cars, hogs 2,000, cattle 1,445,000 bushels; corn increase 2,019,000; oats increase 71,000.
Wheat cables are irregular. Compared with yesterday they are 1/4 lower for March, but 1/4 higher for May. Compared with Saturday's closing today's Liverpool prices are unchanged to 1/4 higher.
The Black Sea shipments of 4,986,000 bushels, against 3,837,000 last week and 4,388,000 last year.

Northwestern receipts 608 cars, two days, against 546 last week and 911 last year. English visible wheat increased 1,233; official yesterday 42,163; left over 3,900; active and steady at yesterday's final figures.
